The Council creates awareness of the many important benefits of improving roads, bridges, and other key transportation infrastructure in Arkansas by researching, evaluating and publicizing data focused on transportation issues. The organization grants scholarships to outstanding civil engineering students in their junior year or senior year of college. Recipients of the engineering scholarship commit to work in the transportation field in Arkansas for a minimum of one year after graduation.

Five undergraduates from the University of Arkansas, Department of Civil Engineering have received engineering scholarships from the Arkansas Good Roads Transportation Council for the 2015-16 academic year. The 2015-16 Good Roads scholarship recipients are Bradley Bridges, William Caster, Tanner Clement, Kristen Haltom, and Josilyn Mitchell.
